the Market-Bonds Remain Firm.

NOTE—All market news on this page reflects closing sale prices (unless buy or bid be specified) Friday, Sept. 26, 1913.

New York, Sept. 26.—The morning trading in stocks revealed no definite trend and the only governing factor seemed to be the momentary whim of the professional element.

Speculators viewed the rise in Union Pacific with suspicion baying in mind Speculators viewed the rise in Union Pacific with suspicion, having in mind recent experiences when special stocks were bid up to facilitate distribution elsewhere. The movement in Union Pacific did little more than restore the market to a fair degree of steadiness, after it had moved back and forth in a surprising fashion.

The general list began to rise in a more comprehensive manner, with particular strength in Reading, Erie and Can.

Bonds were firm.
Union Pacific forced its way to the highest point of the week, despite the fact that today's three point jump brought out a large volume of realiz-ing. Traders who were skeptical of the rumors of a cash dividend and sold Union Pacific short, were active bid-

Union Pacific short, were active bidders for the stock.

When the brisk buying movement in Union Pacific faltered, business dwindled to nominal proportions and prices went off a trifle. Union Pacific receded a point.

The market closed steady. Late selling about canceled the small advances in the general run of stocks. Reading ing about canceled the small advances in the general run of stocks. Reading and Union Pacific were affected most by speculative selling, the last named sagging more swiftly under the unfavorable August earnings were published. Some stocks were bid up again later, which imparted an improved tone to final dealings.
